

ATBP

Find something different.

A discovery-first marketplace for unique Filipino finds — handmade, vintage, pre-loved, collectible, and made-to-order.

A marketplace built for browsing, not just searching.

ATBP ("at iba pa" — Filipino for "and other things") is a Philippine marketplace focused on discovery rather than mass-market commodity shopping. Sellers list their own products; ATBP provides the marketplace, discovery, storefronts, transactions, and tools.

Handmade & Art

Makers and artists, one-of-ones and small batches

Vintage & Pre-Loved

Closets, yard sales, and personal resale

Collectibles

Trading cards, toys, anime, gaming, vinyl

Made-to-Order

Custom pieces built after a buyer orders

Plus a small set of adjacent formats: shelf-stable food & snacks, remote services, and digital products.

Not every shopper is searching for a SKU.

The largest Philippine marketplaces are optimized for search, price, convenience, and massive catalogues — genuinely well-suited to commodity shopping. But there's a different, well-documented shopping behavior they're not built around:

"I want to browse — find something I wasn't specifically looking for."

"I want something with personality, made by someone I can follow."

"I want to support a small seller, not a warehouse."

92% of Filipino survey respondents say they buy secondhand goods — among the highest rates surveyed in Southeast Asia — and the Philippines' secondhand apparel market alone is estimated to grow from $5.2B (2025) to $17.9B by 2031 (22.8% CAGR). That behavior doesn't have a dedicated home on a mass-market catalogue platform.

Seller identity turns browsing into repeat engagement.

Every ATBP shop carries a real storefront, story, reviews, badges, and followers — not an anonymous listing ID. A buyer who follows a shop keeps seeing its new listings without searching again, turning one-time discovery into a standing relationship with a seller.

A live, working marketplace — not a mockup.

Home — discovery-first, curated shelves

Explore — the full catalog, grouped

Product page — condition, seller, reviews

Two sides, both underserved by mass-market platforms.

Sellers

Handmade makers & artists · Collectors · Vintage & pre-loved sellers · Closet & yard-sale sellers · Small local businesses & brands · Made-to-order/custom creators · Freelancers offering services · Digital-product creators

Buyers

Discovery shoppers · Collectors & hobby communities · Gift shoppers · Pre-loved/thrift shoppers · Fans of Filipino makers · Local-discovery shoppers · Value-conscious shoppers

98.6% of the Philippine population owns a smartphone, and e-wallets (GCash/Maya) now account for 39% of digital transactions, ahead of card payments — the payment behavior ATBP's checkout is already built around.

A large, digitally-ready market — sized conservatively.

117M

Total Philippine population
(Oct. 2025)

98M

Internet users — 83.8%
penetration

95.8M

Social media identities,
+10.3% YoY

TAM range reflects multiple third-party estimates (Mordor Intelligence, MarkWide Research, Expert Market Research, Cloud Ecommerce), which vary by methodology — treat as directional. SAM proxy: Mobility Foresights, Philippines Second-hand Apparel Market. Population/internet figures: DataReportal Digital 2026 Philippines. All checked September 2026.

Different platforms, different jobs — not a ranked list.

| PLATFORM               | POSITIONING                                            | SELLER IDENTITY / STOREFRONT                                            | LISTING MODEL                                                        |
|------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| ATBP                   | Discovery — handmade, vintage, pre-loved, collectibles | Full storefront, badges, followers, reviews, curated Picks              | Individual + Closets/Yard Sales/Services/Digital as distinct formats |
| Shopee / Lazada        | Mass-market general commerce, largest catalogues       | Shop pages exist, less identity-forward                                 | Dense category-first catalogue                                       |
| TikTok Shop            | Social/live commerce, in-feed discovery                | Creator-linked, algorithm-first                                         | Video/livestream-driven selling                                      |
| Carousell              | Peer-to-peer casual resale, chat-to-buy                | Light profiles, transactional                                           | Individual listings, no formal storefront/collection layer           |
| Etsy (int'l benchmark) | Global handmade & vintage marketplace                  | Strong shop identity — closest analog to ATBP's model, different market | Individual shop catalogues                                           |

ATBP is not claiming to out-scale Shopee, Lazada, or TikTok Shop — it's occupying the discovery/identity niche closer to Etsy's model, adapted for the Philippine market and extended to formats (Closets, Yard Sales, local markets) none of the above are built around.

Simple, transparent, transaction-aligned.

Commission

10% standard, 8% on the Premium seller plan — ATBP's primary revenue line, earned only when a seller earns.

Subscriptions

Pro ₱699/mo and Premium ₱1,999/mo unlock higher listing limits and seller tools.

Promotions & ads

Self-serve seller placements (Boost, Featured, Homepage) plus admin-managed third-party advertising.

Transaction fees

A flat ₱15 processing fee (Card/Online Banking) and an opt-in, buyer-paid Buyer Protection Fee.

No cost of goods, no inventory risk — ATBP's cost structure is platform infrastructure and people, not merchandise. The fee model deliberately mirrors what's simplest for a seller to understand: one flat commission, not a stack of transaction/processing/growth-support line items layered on top.

A complete, working product — early in its commercial rollout.

Built & live

Full buyer/seller marketplace flows — discovery, storefronts, checkout, reviews, following, collections, deals, closets, yard sales, local discovery, seller plans, sponsored placements, admin operations tooling, and a Founding Seller program with 200 slots (197 remaining at time of writing).

Built, not yet switched on

Auctions and livestream selling are fully implemented, feature-flagged off until buyer volume can sustain them. A real courier integration (Ninja Van) exists in code, pending production hardening.

What partners should know

Payments, payouts, and subscription billing currently run through a mock provider while ATBP prepares to integrate a live Philippine payment gateway — this is the primary near-term technical milestone, not a gap that affects the product experience today.

Where a partner plugs in directly.

Payment partners

ATBP's checkout and commission engine are built to a real PSP integration point (GCash, Maya, QR Ph, Card, Online Banking) — the architecture is ready; the integration is the open door.

Logistics partners

A courier-adaptor pattern already exists in code (Ninja Van as the reference integration) alongside Manual and Local Pickup fulfillment — built to add another courier without changing checkout.

Event & market partners

ATBP Markets and community Events are a real, admin-supported feature — a natural fit for organizers of maker markets, bazaars, and pop-ups seeking a digital counterpart.

Brand & advertising partners

A working sponsored-placement and third-party advertising system (impressions/clicks tracked) is live at the infrastructure level, ready for a formalized rate card.

CLOSING

A discovery marketplace, built for the Philippines' next wave of online shoppers.

ATBP is live, functional, and positioned in a category the largest Philippine marketplaces aren't built for. We'd welcome the conversation.